

Grow Your Own Garden

10 AM Sat. June 5th
at the Community Gardens, Bradford St., Bennington

Free - Beginner's Workshop

Free - Veggie Plants

Free - Pollinator Flowers

Free - 7 Garden Plots * for first time gardeners first come, first served

Free
Fun 4 Kids Activities

Free

Honey Bees at Work
with Jeanne Davis

Details on Back Side

Sponsored by: Bennington Area Makers, UVM Master Gardeners, and Bennington Rotary

Pre-registration Requested at 802-440-5190 (Cindy Hudson-Knapp)

Grow Your Own Garden Day

Sat. June 5th
at the Community Gardens, Bradford St., Bennington(

Grow Your Own Garden Workshop

10:00-10:30 AM

New gardeners! UVM Master Gardeners will offer a quick, hands-on workshop. Participants will receive free vegetable starts from Clear Brook Farm, and 7 small garden plots will be given away thanks to Bennington Rotary. Child-youth activities will be available at the same time!

Make-and-Take Kids Bee Crafting Activities

10:00 - 11:30 AM

Bennington County 4-H will offer two levels of crafting: younger/smaller hands will make simple bee puppets for play and exploration; older/more agile hands will be making electronic “beebots” that buzz and zoom across flat surfaces. 4-H staff, Kimberly Griffin, will also lead a discussion about bees and pollinators in our food system and how to help them. Take home versions of crafts will also be available.

Honey Bees at Work

10:00-11:00 AM

Beekeeper and educator Jeanne Davis will bring her traveling beehive to provide an up-close look at the fascinating work of honeybees. Kids and adults can learn about bee keeping and how to protect and support these important pollinators.

Pollinator Plant Give-Away

10:30 AM - Noon

Bennington Area Makers in collaboration with Clear Brook Farm and UVM will provide a variety of free pollinator plants for anyone interested in attracting bees and other pollinators to their gardens.

Pre-registration required. Call 802-440-5190 or register online at bit.ly/3e0JCN6

Physical distancing and masking guidelines will be followed.

*use parking lot at the Rec. Center, please.